Mr. Samuel Frank, of Hardinsburg, was in the city last week.
Prof. John A. Smart, of Garnettsville, was in the city last week.
Miss Annie Ackerman, of Rome, Ind., is the guest of Miss Nettie Bait.

Mr. Ed. McEllohan, of Union Star, is enjoining at the Tar Springs.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Blackberries will prove a short crop after all.
We are pleased to see Dr. Holt on the Baptist church.
Quite a crowd of boarders are gathering at the Tar Springs.
Cholera morbus seems to be the fashionable disease just now.
There are twenty-five hands at work on the H. & C. turnpike.

The Dora Calder came up with a big excursion party Sunday.
Graham & Bro. have moved their spoke mill out to Liberty Hall.
It is the universal hope that the torrid wave has passed on to other lands than ours.
The comet, after becoming almost invisible, brightened up considerably Sunday night.
There were five cases of cholera morbus in the family of Mr. A. B. Skillman Saturday night.
The rain storm of Sunday afternoon was a blessed relief. The temperature has been many degrees cooler since.

The White Sulphur Spring below town is exactly at the end of a good, nice drive for our young beaux and belles.
The Elizabethtown convention is only spoken of with disgust. Louisville delegates should be ruled out entirely.
Our pear trees are as full as the limbs will bear, but the apples are falling off. The peaches are hardly worth mentioning.
"O! there comes the railroad," was the ejaculation of a small boy as he saw a steam-hill engine passing through town, one day last week.

Tom Cannon's new paper, the State Sentinel, published at Cave Run, in this county, is at hand, and a most excellent paper it is. We wish it a long and prosperous career.
The Searcher, of West Liberty, is one of our latest visitors. In its stirring editorials we recognize our old friend John Tom Hazerling, than whom the mountains of Kentucky never produced a truer gentleman or stricter democrat.
We are indebted to our friend Charley Tins, of Holt's Bottom, for a large basket of luscious ripe apples. That his days will be long on earth and longer in heaven is evinced by the fact that when he has a good thing to share he never forgets the printer.

The anti-railroad communication from Hardinsburg is crowded out of this issue by Judge Alexander's advertisement announcing his candidacy for the appellate judgeship, but will appear next week, accompanied by such editorial comment as we may deem pertinent and necessary.
Cloverport only received a light brush of the season of Thursday evening. It was snow severe at Hardinsburg, while at Cloverport it snowed the court-house and other buildings, and did considerable damage in various parts of the city. At one time, we were told, the water ran fully three feet deep in some of the streets. Fortunately no lives were lost, though some horses were killed in the upper part of the town.
A Fool Once More.
For ten years my wife was confined to her bed with such a complication of ailments that no doctor could tell what was the matter or cure her, and I used up a small fortune in hiring out. Six months ago I saw a U. S. flag with Hop Bitters on it, and I thought I would be a fool once more. I tried it, but my wife would not be wised. Two bottles cured her, and she is now as well and strong as any man's wife, and it cost me only two dollars. Such fully pays. - H. W., Detroit, Mich. - [Free Press.]

OUR RAILROAD.

The Results of the Trip of Messrs. Pierce and Miller Along the Proposed Route Along the Upper West.
As we announced last week, Messrs. Pierce and Miller went over the proposed line of the Louisville, Cloverport and Western Railway above this city, extending their trip to Brandenburg. They were cordially welcomed along the line, and procured liberal subscriptions to the enterprise, everywhere except at Brandenburg, where the business men, without exception, refuse to aid the enterprise, even to the amount of a single share of stock, giving as their reason therefor that the increased facilities of a railroad would take their customers to Louisville, where they could get better bargains.

Now, our idea of business is, that in this progressive age it is useless to try to hem people in and compel them to trade at any particular place, but the proper plan is to afford all reasonable facilities, and then of course, the business will follow. We are confident that we will attract customers, Brandenburg and Elizabethtown are the same distance from Louisville. Would the enterprise be without a railroad? No. Since the construction of the L. and N. road through Elizabethtown the business of that place has increased more than fivefold, and we would suggest to those who deal at Brandenburg the propriety of testing the difference between the Louisville and Louisville prices, as the merchants of the former, from the way they are acting and proposing to act in the future must be extorting their customers. This is not an age for the profitable construction of Chinese walls around towns. In justice to our neighboring town, however, we must state that this hostility to our projected enterprise is confined exclusively to its business men. Property holders, lawyers, physicians, clerks, all look stock, and the people in the county are fully alive to the importance of the road and thoroughly understand their situation.

A large delegation from the vicinity of Webster and Haymarket met our emissaries, and insisted on a visit to their section, promising liberal subscriptions. We are pleased to state that our commissioners are under promise to visit those people next Saturday, and the result may be that the road will pass a few miles south of Brandenburg, and then what?
At Fayetteville, however, and other points along the route, the people are taking stock and anxious for the road, and may secure it along their way. Union Star and Stephenson will each subscribe liberally, and the country along this route is certainly a very fertile one.
The Meade County Record is a fine paper, and the editor is in full accord with the enterprise. Our commissioners declare that it was refreshing to them to meet with Brother Thurman.

The prospect for the road is better than good, it is almost now a certainty, and Messrs. Pierce and Miller are satisfied that they will secure the requisite amount of subscriptions by next Saturday night.

RAILROAD NOTES.
Mr. S. Powers, of Havesville, was in our city Sunday, and says there is considerable interest felt there in regard to the railroad, and the people of Havesville are anxious to have the location fixed near them, which would secure a large amount of traffic from Tell City and Cannelton to the road.
Our commissioners have not as yet called upon the citizens of Louisville for subscriptions to the capital stock of our road. They are fully aware, however, of the great advantages to be reaped by that city, and appreciate the liberality of its citizens; but, recognizing the fact that for such enterprises as Louisville is usually the first to be applied to, and expected to furnish the chief aid extended, they have commenced in the country and country towns first, where they have met with much success, and will only ask Louisville to furnish a small amount to complete the requisite sum. Messrs. Pierce and Miller will visit that city next week.
Lewisport is reported as taking a lively interest in our projected railroad, and is anxious to have the route located at or near her doors.

At Pellville considerable interest in the railroad has been developed. Last Friday our commissioners were visited by a friendly delegation, headed by Mr. T. P. Brauer and Mr. Morrison, of that town, to know upon what terms subscriptions would be received. They were furnished with a book, and to go on Saturday stock to the amount of $1,700 had been secured, with prospects of raising it up to $5,000 or $10,000.
The organization of the Louisville Southern Railroad Company at Frankfort, on Saturday night, in accordance with previous arrangement, and for the purpose of consolidating with the Louisville, Cloverport and Western Railway Company in order to confer additional privileges upon the latter company, and shows that satisfactory progress is being made.

THE SHOTGUN IN OHIO COUNTY.

A White Man Shot and Fatally Wounded by a Negro Whose Life He Had Threatened.
Last Saturday, a farmer of Ohio county, named Burton, who was shot and mortally wounded by a negro man, Richard Burgin. What is known of the fatal quarrel is the statement of the negro, who was promptly arrested and lodged in the Hartford jail.
According to Burgin's statement, the two were cropping together, when a misunderstanding arose between them about the amount of work each was doing on the farm, each accusing the other of a disposition to throw the burden of the labor upon the other's shoulders. Burton, who, it is said, had already killed his neighbor several years ago, was regarded by his neighbors as a desperate fellow, and was wont when angered, to indulge in bloody threats against any person who aroused his ire, and on this occasion tried his usual game of bluff on his neighbor, by asserting that he intended to kill him (Burton's) intention to kill him (Burgin), cut his heart out and hang it upon the bushes. The negro, knowing the man, concluded that his safety required that he should initiate the killing process, and to do so he procured a double-barreled shotgun, charged both barrels heavily with shot, and, on Saturday last, as stated above, began and ended the war by discharging the contents of both barrels into the back of Burton's head and neck, producing wounds that the physicians pronounce fatal. Burgin made no attempt to escape, evidently believing that he had only acted in self-defense, thinking that Burton's sanguinary threat initiated him to the privilege of shooting his enemy down unawares, as the location of the wounds show that he slipped up behind his victim to perpetrate the act of murder.

JUDGE OF THE APPELLATE COURT.

Judge T. T. Alexander, of Louisville, has been appointed to the appellate court, created by the act of the Legislature of 1878.
To the VOTERS OF THE THIRD APPELLATE DISTRICT OF KENTUCKY: Yielding to the solicitation of numerous friends, I have consented to become a candidate for the seat on our appellate bench made vacant by the death of Judge Coffey. The office is one of great dignity and responsibility. The incumbent should possess legal ability of the highest order, coupled with integrity of character and firmness of purpose. The office is non-political in the scope of its duties, and the occupant of that high position should be as far removed from sinister influence as possible—to "know no man after the flesh."
I seriously distrust my ability to fulfill the grave duties of a position made illustrious by the name of Coffey, who has adorned this court. If, however, I am honored by the people with this preference, I will bring to the discharge of its duties a long experience in the study and practice of the law, serving two terms as circuit judge, since the act of the Legislature of 1878, and engaged in the practice of law in the courts held in the city of Louisville. These, with an unflinching purpose to ascertain the right and to declare it as it may appear, are the guarantees I offer for the faithful and honest discharge of the duties of this trust.

The calling of a convention to alter or amend the existing constitution of the state is, perhaps, the most important question now before the people. It may not, therefore, be improper to give expression to my views in reference thereto. I voted against the adoption of the present constitution, and over thirty years of its practical, or, rather, impractical, working has but confirmed me in my opposition to it. The necessity of a new constitution is an apparent fact that needs no argument to support it. In the first place, at least one-third of it is rendered obsolete by the results of the war; secondly, it seems to me that a change in the mode of selecting our judicial officers would prove beneficial; thirdly, the power of the Legislature to confiscate the property of the citizen to the use of private corporations under the garb of taxation, ought to be curtailed. For one, I do not believe, under existing laws, that property of the individual citizen can be rightfully taken without his consent, unless in just compensation, "not even by the largest majority." A number of the counties and cities in this state are even now grievously burdened with taxation power and in the hands of the Legislature, and the question should be put by a constitutional provision. Another abuse of legislative power is seen in the granting of extraordinary rights to private corporations or corporations over the navigable rivers of the state, compelling them to collect tolls and other charges for the use of property that should be free to all. Another subject demanding special attention is the absolute necessity of some wholesome restraint upon the grasping power and influence of overgrown corporations and monopolies. Other important changes which have been deemed necessary to particularize. Whatever else may fail, I trust the requisite majority may be obtained to call a convention. It is known to the profession in this state that the business of the court of appeals is very much behind, and has been so for years. In view of this fact, I venture to suggest some additional rates that it seems to me if adopted by that court would enable them more efficiently and thoroughly to discharge the duties of their office. All cases should be disposed of as near as may be in the order in which they are submitted, giving precedence as far as practicable to cases orally argued.

The briefs of attorneys should all be printed, and each judge required to read the briefs of the opposing party before the final consultation and disposal of such case. The reading of the record and briefs by one judge only, and the measure time the full court has for consultation, results practically in getting the opinion of one judge for that of another.
We have been so much accustomed to mingle politics with office-seeking and office-holding that it will hardly be expected that I should close this communication without letting it be known how I stand with the world at large and the political parties. I am not a partisan in any particular. Not wishing to withhold any thing proper to be made known, either in the past or present, I will frankly state that in the existing division of parties I am a republican; was raised a whig and follow the fortunes of that grand old party until its name was obliterated by the "dark lanterns" of the "Know-nothings." Before, during and since the war I have been an ardent friend of the union.
I wish to add, in conclusion, that I am not making this canvass on party grounds. I am not the candidate of any convention, clique or caucus. I appeal from the "ring-masters" and "machine bosses" to the people at large, and with their verdict I will be content. It seems to me that we have had enough politics in our judicial contests in Kentucky, and that the people should pay attention more to the qualifications and fitness of the aspirants than to mere political views, be they what they may.
But even if more of a partisan than I profess to be, I could do no very serious political mischief to our common party with the other three members of the court, all democrats, to watch me. It certainly is not an illiberal division of party spoils to ask that the republican and greenback parties have one representative out of the four judges comprising the court.
It will be a perfect representation of my views and claims, the people confer this honor upon me, I will use my best endeavors to serve them. Respectfully,
T. T. ALEXANDER.

A Certain Cure for every form of Fever and Ague. The Cure is Permanent.
This preparation has all the virtues of quinine, without any of its disagreeable effects. All who have had Fever and Ague and have taken quinine, calomel or arsenic, (which are the principal ingredients of most of the medicines now in use) are aware that the medicines often leave the system in an unhealthy condition, making it more difficult to relieve it of the effects than of the original disease. Wintersmith's Improved Quinine Cure leaves the system in a perfectly healthy condition, with no bad effects in any way to be worn off.
